DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 5-7, 9-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Casey (5,766,005).

Fig. 10.

Casey discloses a cap assembly (above) including a protective element (e.g. cap) (fig. 9-10) constructed and arranged to cover or envelop the end of the arch; and fixing means 35 integrally joined to and extending from the protective element and constructed and capable of being fixed to the bracket system surrounding the molar tube behind flaps thereof at the height of the arch, the protector isolating mucous membranes susceptible of being damaged inside the mouth; the protective element is a cap constructed and arranged for covering the end of the arch, and the fixing means comprises an elastic ring integral with and extending from the protective element (col. 3, lines 50-67); the protective element is made of a synthetic, elastic, impermeable and soft material; the cap has a closed end, and an internal reinforcement of the cap is provided at the closed end as seen in the figure; the internal reinforcement is made of the same material as the cap.

With regard the statement of intended use and other functional statements, they do not impose any structural limitations on the claims distinguishable over Casey which is capable of being used as claimed if one so desires to do so. In re Casey, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963). Furthermore, the law of anticipation does not require that the reference "teach" what the subject patent teaches, but rather it is only necessary that the claims under attack "read on" something in the reference. Kalman v. Kimberly Clark Corp., 218 USPQ 781 (CCPA 1983). Furthermore, the manner in which a device is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed apparatus from prior art apparatus satisfying the claimed structural limitations. Ex parte Masham, 2 USPQ2d 1647 (1987).

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Casey as applied to claim 1 above.

Casey discloses the invention substantially as claimed except for the protective element (cap) is made of silicone gel. However it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to modify Casey by selecting the material silicone gel for the cap since the selection of a known material based on its suitability for its intended use supported a prima facie obviousness determination in Sinclair & Carroll co. v. International Corp., 325 U.S. 327, 65.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 06/12/08 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive because prior art has all the claimed structural limitation. Regarding intended use, see the reasoning above.

Conclusion

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
